Mark Greenberg Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy

A former Californian, and a member of our legal services community, Mark Greenberg is now Deputy Secretary for Policy of United States Department Health and Human Services. Mark was one major welfare litigator in California working for Western Center on Law & Poverty (WC&LP) following Ralph Abascal of San Francisco Neighborhood Legal Aid Foundation (SFNLAF) and Marilyn Katz of WC&LP. Before coming to California he worked at Jacksonville Area Legal Aid in Florida.

Before joining HHS, Mark H. Greenberg directed the Georgetown University Center on Poverty, Inequality and Public Policy, a joint initiative of the Georgetown University Law Center and the Georgetown Public Policy Institute. In addition, he was a Senior Fellow at the Center for American Progress (CAP) and the Center for Law and Social Policy (CLASP). He previously served as the Executive Director of CAP's Task Force on Poverty and as CLASP's Director of Policy. During his career, Mr. Greenberg has written extensively on issues relating to federal and state welfare reform efforts; workforce policy issues affecting low-income families; child care and early education policy; tax policy; poverty measurement; and a range of other low-income issues. In addition, he frequently provided technical assistance to state and local governments regarding poverty reduction strategies. Mr. Greenberg is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School.

Sharon Parrott Counselor to the Secretary on Welfare Reform

Parrott worked at the Center on Budget Policy and Priorities based on Washington D.C. from 1993 through August 2009. Parrott was the Director of the Welfare Reform and Income Support Division. This division is responsible for the Center's work on the TANF program and other federal and state policy issues related to welfare reform, child care funding, and child support enforcement.

Parrott played a key role in the Center's work on the federal budget, the impact of federal budget decisions on low-income populations, low-income tax policy, and policies that ensure that solutions to climate change do not adversely impact low-income households.

In 1999 and 2000, Parrott was detailed to the District of Columbia's Department of Human Services where she served as a Senior Policy Advisor on TANF, Food Stamp and Medicaid issues. Parrott returned to the Center in July 2001.

She received both her B.A. in Economics and Masters Degree in Social Work with a social policy emphasis from the University of Michigan.
